

Directions As you read The Kite Runner, you will acquire lasting memories of a fictional world that could inform you of the “real” world and your place in it. To make sense of what you experience--and, to make the memories last for a potential future writing assignment--detail important moments/events/scenes/episodes in the chart below. A story’s scenes vary in length; time/place changes most often signal the end of a scene. Nine is not a magic number of moments to detail, but nine episodes will be required to complete this sheet. You may write others for your own scholarship. Email me should you have questions or concerns. NOTE: You may choose to recreate this digitally.

setting (WHEN/WHERE); provide page number(s)	characters (WHO)	conflict/actions of the event/scene (WHAT)	what we learn about human nature/our world from this scene; this should be a complete sentence (WHY)

setting (WHEN/WHERE); provide page number(s)	characters (WHO)	conflict/actions of the event/scene (WHAT)	what we learn about human nature/our world from this scene; this should be a complete sentence (WHY)